What the Hood Group Judges had to say

“CENTRAL HAIRDRESSING ACADEMY use its own people to mould the careers of others and develop them into professional workforce. The academy is run by a small group of people, including trainers, mentors and coaches. They oversee the training given to 1,700 students and in turn develop their own people. The training team has varied roles, are mentored and developed, incentivised, given regular reviews, and are engaged through all decision making. The team is passionate about its trade and demonstrate this by imparting its vast knowledge to students. The team has regular professional photo shoots, create regular glossy magazines and compete against the country’s best in events like the L’Oreal Colour Trophy. Raining the trainer extends from time management, planning, listening and learning techniques, to equality and diversity skills. Training is so highly regarded that City and Guilds use Central to write some of its text books. The teaching of training techniques is made exciting via a structured programme. This Investors in People organisation received grade two qualifications in every area last year and is making strides to become the only work-based college to achieve grade one this year. With a comprehensive three-year business plan, the academy demonstrated its ambitions backed up by regular Government audits, Central were head and shoulders above the rest of the field..” Essex Business Awards 2010.
